

School 25 Newsletter – October 2015

On October 16th, there was an Art Show at School of the Arts. Some of our talented students had their work exhibited.

Mrs. Grey and Mrs. Henry have a unique SFA class in the cafeteria every morning. I was curious to learn more about it, so I asked Leesha to explain how it works. She told me that there is a ceremony every Monday when they adopt a new word baby. They are supposed to bring the word babies to class each day, take it home, read the words to their parents and put it under their pillow each night.

She also said that if they bring the word baby to class, they get a treat.

I recently attended a ceremony where the students all promised to take care of their word baby.

I have been asked to make sure they are all treating their babies well and if they do not they have to come to see me in the library.

Thank you Leesha.

School 25 has 5 school goals

Each month we will feature one of these goals to familiarize you with them.

The second of these goals:

Higher level questioning leading to higher level problem-solving skills.
