Since day one of his first year of teaching, Gavin has devoted himself to his students and his classroom. Gavin is conscientious of the classroom environment that he has built with his students and support staff, creating a “no fear” zone where students are free to take risks with their learning. Gavin is often found attending his students' extracurricular activities. This further enhances his connection with students and their connection with him. They recognize that he takes an interest in their talents and activities outside the classroom, further deepening the bond he has created with each and every one of them. Gavin is dedicated to all students at East High School, and firmly believes in their ability to be successful, and his ability to help them reach their goals.
