School #52 families,

We hope you all had a wonderful Thanksgiving break with your family. We are grateful for your support and sharing your amazing children with us!

The students enjoyed November's PBIS event- Movie & Popcorn. Many students were able to attend the event for having great behavior in the month of November. Thanks to the PBIS committee for this awesome event! Next month, students will look forward to spending their "dragon dollars" at the School 52 store.

Important Dates:

Dec. 4th- picture make-up day

Dec. 8th- Half day for students

Dec. 20th- Winter Concert

Share tips to help your child master reading assignments

Some kids rush through the reading assigned for homework and think, “That’s it. Finished!” Reading the chapters the teacher assigns is essential. But homework doesn’t end there. To truly learn from the text, your child must study as they read. Strong study skills will also help them prepare better for tests. So show your child how to:

- Skim chapters to find important themes and key points. They should first look at headings and subheadings. Then they can take note of boldface and italicized words. Material in the margins is important, too.
- Take notes in their notebook as they read. Or, if allowed, your child can highlight key passages right in the book or on the handout.
- Pay attention to illustrations, graphs, tables and charts. These can clarify important concepts.
- Write a short summary of the material in their own words. They can also tell you about what he or she read.
