Students also had the opportunity to study local history with a field trip to the Harriet Tubman House in Auburn, NY, and participate in an African art and dance exhibit at World of Inquiry School No. 58.

The celebration on Friday, August 4 will include the Borinquen Dance Theatre and D’Lores Simmons, known as the “Storiteacha.” She is a retired RCSD teacher who taught for 32 years and is a member of the Blackstorytelling League of Rochester. Simmons has shared stories in schools, colleges, libraries, and churches, which have been educating, inspiring, healing, and entertaining people since 1997.
