Members of the Rochester Police Department's Bomb Squad are donating a retired robot to students who are members of the ROC City Robotix Team. Team 3838 is a District-wide robotics team that consists of scholars from East High School, School Without Walls, School of the Arts, and Edison Career and Technology High School. In addition to students being able to examine the robot's design, it can also be showcased in demonstrations and used to attract future team members.

Students from Team 3838 are exposed to science and technology by designing and building robots around a specific function to compete on a world stage against other teams. Adult team mentors are experts in various fields who guide and teach students along the way.
