Description: Teachers will plan with the Pittsford teachers to create units of study for grades three and four. The project will create a partnership between students to share their culture and learning. The KIDBRIDGE project is dedicated to developing lateral relationships between students and fostering communities sharing resources, building bridges and relationships and cultivating trust and tolerance. This experience will be structured to engage students by involving an urban and a suburban classroom working jointly on an ongoing unit culminating in a project. The instruction will involve communication through video conferencing, blogs, podcasts and writing. A joint field trip and a joint culminating exposition are envisioned to support both the learning and the communication between classrooms.

Description: The Professional Development for the Preschool/ Kindergarten Summer School Transition Program consisted of teacher training on the curriculum used for the program. We used the OWL (Opening the World of Learning) curriculum from Pearson Learning. A trainer from Pearson/consultant facilitated this training. As a supplement and parent piece to connect school and home, we also used and trained teachers on Leap Frog "Word Whammers." Amy Lyle conducted the training on this early literacy tool.
All children in the program were given a set to keep and parents were given a review of the kit so they can work with their children at home. Amy is planning on tracking the children who participated in this initial summer program.

Description: Project Lead The Way is a national engineering program that mandates all teachers be trained in their curriculum. This recertification process will be complete in September when the teachers listed have completed the training. Teachers trained will be allowed to give students the PLTW national exams which are college credit bearing for students who receive a passing grade. The end goal is to increase the number of students receiving college credit for high school classes. This helps students to prepare for post secondary engineering programs and allows them to start with up to 12 credits as freshmen.
