What we're working on...

We've started off the third marking period strong with our cut paper kaleidoscope designs that are looking awesome!

In the meantime, we've been working on print collages that are inspired by things the scholars are interested in. They made a textured styro-foam background that is going to be used to pull prints, and will collage a verb that connects to their background (for example, basketball with the word dribble collaged on top). These will be wrapping up right before winter break!
