Description: Collaborative teams are the essential building blocks of professional learning communities and most school improvement models. This two-day workshop explores the attributes and actions of teacher leaders and administrators who work together as high-performing teams. Participants will leave with tools and strategies that will increase effectiveness as members and facilitators of powerful collaborative teams. Opportunities for team building and creating structures for student success will be the outcome of this two-day workshop. SINI funds are being utilized to support this opportunity.

During this week we will use best practices from Whatever it Takes and the Collaborative Teacher to realign our staff into learning teams. Specialist will use current student data, human resources, scheduling, and information from PLC surveys to align their new teams. Planning for the School #22 Solution Tree (DuFour) summer institute professional development will also take place.

Description: To develop a vertical curriculum for the Speech-Language Therapy for the Educational Performance of our Students (STEPS) Program in order to infuse the speech/language components of the program into the curriculum at kindergarten, first grade, and second grade. STEPS Description:

- Designed for severely speech-language impaired students (low incidence population)
- STEPS is integrated into the general education setting with no more than 12 students with a disability
- These students are at HIGH risk for reading and writing delays, they require specific modifications for the acquisition of phonological skills.
- STEPS enables students to develop a communication system that supports overall development in the areas of oral language, academic, social-emotional and physical skills.
- An eclectic approach to oral language development integrates the communication processes of listening, speaking, reading and writing.

Description: The book circle will read a text which provides a framework for thinking about the kinds of skills and abilities teachers of children of color need for success. The text includes several essays from experts and scholars that identify ways of improving instruction and raising achievement for students. The 15-hour session will focus on learning, understanding, and applying strategies from the text to instructional practices. Participants will create a final product to demonstrate knowledge and/or examples of strategies in practice.

Description: Rochester Preschool-Parent Program (RPPP) Introductory Visits and Recruiting: Home visits before the start of the school year, 2009-10, to finish the paperwork needed in the registration process. The visit also allows the Preschool child to meet and interact with the teacher in a familiar setting. It is a visit to encourage the parents to be part of their child's education by attending weekly Parent Group Sessions. The visits are scheduled to match the family's availability. Hours will also be used to find, recruit and register eligible four year olds for PreK.
